IHS Markit Manufacturing Technology Group launched this industrial automation supplier and event tracker early 2018, covering the global industrial automation supplier performance tracking and key event analysis.

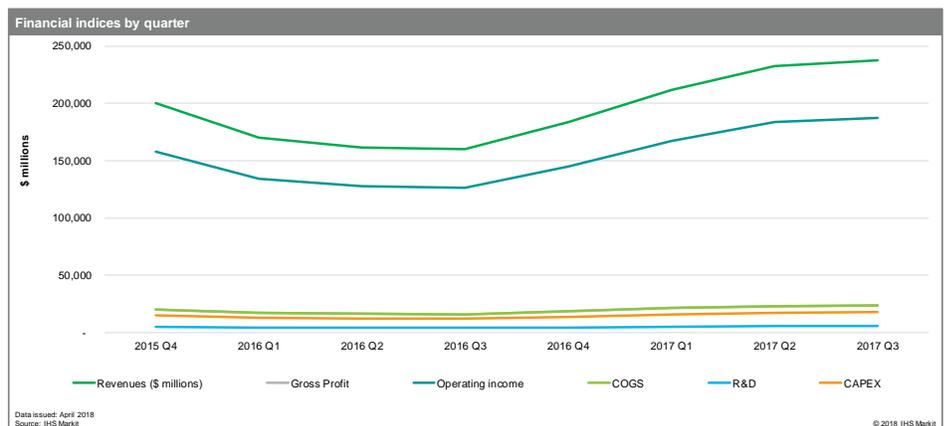

One component of this tracker monitors leading industrial automation supplier performance on a quarterly basis from a financial perspective. Analysis of publicly available information is also provided and includes press releases, partnerships, acquisitions and strategic direction. Annual and quarterly financial indices that are presented include revenues, gross profit, COGS, R&D expenses, operating income, and CAPEX.

The second component of the tracker provides IHS Markit views on some of the world's largest industrial events. With 30 manufacturing technology analysts globally, the team attends a large number of events during the year and provides analysis of event themes, emerging participants, disruptive technology, conference agenda, general sentiment and technology/product updates.

This tracker will provide a regularly updated viewpoint of industrial automation supplier performance and leading event analysis. Combined, this is a valuable tool in assessing industry performance and development in real-time.

IHS Markit Manufacturing Technology Group delivers the latest information and analysis on industrial automation market dynamics and supplier performance to keep you ahead of the curve.
