

Chemical Week is the leading source of news and business insight for the global chemical industry. With over 100 years of market dominance, Chemical Week is the magazine of choice for senior management in all aspects of the chemical industry worldwide.

ENGINEERING & CONSTRUCTION

MAGAZINE

Chemical Week's annual Engineering & Construction feature will assess the outlook chemical industry capital expenditures. Chemicals have been one of the few bright spots for engineering and construction firms as low oil prices have hindered large energy projects. The initial wave of US projects is nearing completion and a more muted but still solid project pipeline remains in North America. Middle East and Asian markets remain active and even Europe has started to show some signs of life in chemical projects after an extended drought. The feature also includes Chemical Week's annual ranking engineering and construction firms in the chemical space.
