

Markit Hub Horizon

Accurate and timely single-stock corporate event data

Hub Horizon is a forward-looking corporate event data service offering accurate and timely single-stock event data easily accessible through www.hub.com.

Corporate events can be unpredictable and often result in increased volatility and risk. Without accurate and timely corporate event data, investment managers lack the information they need to develop comprehensive portfolio strategies that track these events. This could result in investment strategies and decisions that fail to appropriately account for corporate event volatility.

Hub Horizon provides accurate and reliable forward-looking corporate event data that is centrally located and easily accessible alongside Hub's financial research. The data provides investment managers with all of the information that they need to manage corporate events and the potential volatility that comes with them.
