International Energy Executive Forum 2018

12-13 December 2017 | Beijing, China

PARTNERSHIP PROSPECTUS

IEEF FORUM SUMMARY

To help energy industry participants identify critical trends in global energy and to assess the impact that these trends may have on companies and governments, CNPC Economics & Technology Research Institute (ETRI) and IHS Markit are jointly hosting the International Energy Executive Forum in Beijing.

Now in its fifth year, this year's Forum will be held on 12-13 December 2017, with the theme "Energy at Crossroads: Seeking New Balance". In this year's expanded focus from 'Oil and Gas' to 'Energy', we look to address the many fuels and technologies – both old and new – outside the oil and gas business that will likely become increasingly important for industry participants.

PARTICIPANTS

Over 300 delegates from across the globe, including senior corporate executives, government officials, as well as industry experts and thought leaders. Executive functions of participants include strategic planning, research & development, technologies, finance, operations sales & marketing, as well as business development.

SPEAKERS

Speakers include top Chinese energy officials, Chinese state company executives, international energy company executives, leaders from service providers such as oilfield services, equipment and engineering, legal and finance, and leading think tanks.
