Purpose and Summary

Respect for human rights is deeply ingrained in IHS values, in how we run our business, interact with stakeholders and engage with our communities around the world. At IHS, we value diversity and equal opportunity and do not tolerate discrimination or harassment of any kind.

IHS is committed to our colleagues, customers, future generations and the communities where we live and work. We encourage colleagues to fully capture their potential through training, development and personal growth and educational opportunities. We encourage colleagues to engage in community outreach activities and believe in giving back to our communities through financial support, volunteer efforts and team-driven community improvement initiatives.

This IHS global policy communicates the company's expectations with respect to human rights issues and the high standard of conduct expected of colleagues at all IHS locations worldwide. This includes but is not limited to human rights issues such as: non-discrimination, gender equality, freedom of association, collective bargaining, child labor, human trafficking, forced or compulsory labor and indigenous rights.

Scope

For the purpose of this global policy, IHS colleagues include, but may not be limited to: full time, part-time, and fixed-term employees; contingent workforce, which includes consultants, temporary workers, and internal temporary workers; as well as third party vendors or consultants who may access IHS systems for a period of time.

This includes but is not limited to human rights issues such as: non-discrimination, gender equality, freedom of association, collective bargaining, child labor, human trafficking, forced or compulsory labor and indigenous rights.

Policy

IHS adheres to the highest ethical conduct as outlined in the IHS Business Code of Conduct in all aspects of business, including Human Rights, Labor, Environment and Anti-Corruption. IHS operates on a foundation of our core values of Teamwork, Respect, Accountability, Integrity and Innovation which are expected to be followed by all colleagues, management and the board. IHS respects fundamental human rights and views them as a key component of responsible corporate citizenship. In addition to supporting the fundamental principles contained in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights, we are committed to finding practical ways to apply those principles in our daily operations, interactions with customers and in our communities. We continue to work with suppliers to help uphold ethical human rights standards, as outlined in the IHS Supplier IHS Policy Statement. IHS is also a signatory to the World Economic Forum Partnership Against Corruption \(PACI\) and the United Nations Women Empowerment Principles.

IHS is committed to the following operational measures and international labor and workplace standards:

Operational measures

IHS aims to implement the United Nations “Protect, Respect and Remedy” framework which was endorsed by the United Nations Human Rights Council. IHS Recognizes that the UN Guiding Principles on business and human rights provide an authoritative global standard for preventing and addressing the risk of adverse impacts on human rights linked to business activity.

Risk assessment, prevention, and remediation

Should IHS identify any risk of contributing to an adverse impact in the area of human rights or labor rights, it will take the necessary steps to cease or prevent its contribution and use its leverage with internal and external business networks to mitigate any remaining impacts to the greatest extent possible.

By doing so, and in accordance with its core business, IHS pays special attention to International Labor standards such as:

- Non-discriminatory treatment
- Healthy and Safe work environment
- Minimum wages
- No child labor
- Voluntary employment
- Freedom of association
- Anti-harassment
