

Drilling cost and operational benchmarking for a South Asian NOC

Situation

A South Asian NOC wanted to benchmark its performance against typical cost and operational metrics in other areas of the world to implement actions as part of their long term cost optimization program in the country.

Action

Upstream Oil & Gas Consultants:

- Leveraged the vast internal resources capturing cost information for different aspects of the oilfield development cycle in major regions of the world
- Contrasted the information with real data normally captured via interviews and interaction with representatives of the industry
- Developed a database of key performance indicators (economic and operational) comparing standards by geography and main applications

Result

The client used the outcome of the work to place itself in the landscape and assess its performance against the market.
